Platte B. Moring III

Inspector General

The Honorable Platte B. Moring III was confirmed as Inspector General of the Department of Defense in December 2025. His distinguished career encompasses both decorated military service and senior leadership in the public and private sectors.

Commissioning as a Military Police officer through Princeton University's Army ROTC program, Moring later went on to serve as a Judge Advocate in the District of Columbia and Pennsylvania Army National Guard. When called to active duty, he deployed to Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. As Rule of Law Officer for Security Sector Reform, he assisted the government in developing a judicial system by working with allied nations to draft a criminal procedure code, collaborate with the Afghan Constitution Commission, and train judges, prosecutors, and defense counsel. The Army awarded Moring the Bronze Star. He retired as a Lieutenant Colonel after serving as the Command Judge Advocate of the 213th Area Support Group.

Moring began his legal career as a judicial law clerk to the former Chief Judge of the United States Court of International Trade in New York City. Thereafter hired through the Honors Program, he became a trial attorney with the Civil Division of the United States Department of Justice in Washington, D.C. Moring then returned to his hometown and entered private practice with the Philadelphia law firm of White and Williams LLP, where he became a partner and manager of a regional office of the firm. After nearly three decades as a civil litigator, Moring returned to federal government service as Deputy General Counsel, Legal Counsel, in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. In this capacity, he supervised all litigation involving the Department, managed the Office of Military Commissions, and led the Office of Information and Privacy. Most recently, Moring was an adjunct professor at The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina, in the Department of Political Science.

Moring holds an A.B. from Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, an M.S. in Economics from the London School of Economics and Political Science, and a J.D. from Vanderbilt University School of Law.

Steven A. Stebbins

Principal Deputy Inspector General

Steven A. Stebbins was appointed the Principal Deputy Inspector General (PDIG) in April 2023 after serving as the acting PDIG since June 2020. In this role, he serves as the Chief Operating Officer of the Office of Inspector General (OIG). For most of 2025 he served as the acting Inspector General. He was appointed to the Senior Executive Service in May 2015, when he joined the DoD OIG as the Chief of Staff.

Commissioned from Army ROTC as a Second Lieutenant of Field Artillery in 1983, Mr. Stebbins served in the 2nd Infantry Division in South Korea, the 82nd Airborne Division, and the 1st Armored and 3rd Infantry Divisions in Germany at the end of the Cold War. In 1994 he left active duty and worked in private sector human resource management roles in Green Bay, Wisconsin while also serving in the Army Reserve. In late 2001 Mr. Stebbins volunteered for active duty on the Crisis Action Team in the Army Operations Center at the Pentagon, then continued his Army Staff service in the Directorate of Force Management. After serving with the Combined Security Transition Command / NATO Training Mission — Afghanistan, he led the U.S. Army Force Management Support Agency for four years before retiring from the Regular Army as a Colonel in 2015.

Mr. Stebbins earned a B.A. in History from the University of Vermont, where he was captain of the cross country team and ran track; an M.A. in History from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; and an M.S. in National Resource Strategy from the National Defense University. He competed on the U.S. team at the World Military Cross Country Championships in 1987 and 1990 and is an Eagle Scout.

Courtney V. Fones

Senior Advisor to the Inspector General

Ms. Courtney V. Fones is the Senior Advisor to the Inspector General, a senior-level (SL) professional in the Department of Defense Office of Inspector General (DoD OIG). She joined the DoD OIG as an auditor in September 2003 and has served as the Senior Advisor since January 2022. In her current role, Ms. Fones provides advice and guidance on DoD OIG operations and support functions leveraging her decades of experience. She reviews DoD OIG written products and provides editorial direction for the office's reports and advisories. Ms. Fones also oversees statutory publications such as the Semiannual Report to Congress, the Top DoD Management and Performance Challenges, and the Annual Oversight Plan.

Previously working in the DoD OIG's Audit Component, Ms. Fones performed and led audits of contract award and administration for more than a decade. In 2018, she transitioned to readiness and logistics auditing where she managed audits of training ranges, the DoD supply chain, and transportation. Ms. Fones also has experience with base realignment and closure validation, interagency contracting, and Antideficiency Act violations.

Ms. Fones has a bachelor's degree in accounting, graduating magna cum laude, from Juniata College and a master's degree in policy management from Georgetown University. She is also a Certified Fraud Examiner.

Jennifer A. Maceda

Senior Counsel to the Inspector General

Ms. Jennifer Maceda joined the Department of Defense Office of Inspector General (DoD OIG) in March 2021 and has served as the Senior Counselor to the Inspector General (IG) since July 2023. As Senior Counselor, Ms. Maceda provides legal expertise to the Inspector General and other DoD OIG senior leaders on planned and ongoing DoD OIG oversight work, including audits, investigations, and evaluations. She reviews all DoD OIG written products and oversees development of statutory publications.

Ms. Maceda previously served in the DoD OIG's Office of General Counsel where she provided legal advice on senior official misconduct investigations, whistleblower reprisal investigations, and DoD OIG Hotline complaints. She also advised on criminal investigative matters, litigation issues, and other administrative law topics. Prior to joining the DoD OIG, Ms. Maceda was an attorney at the Department of Justice (DOJ), serving as an investigative counsel in the DOJ's Office of the Inspector General and as an aviation tort litigation counsel in the DOJ's Civil Division.

Retired from the United States Air Force in 2016, Ms. Maceda began her career as an intelligence officer before being selected for the Funded Legal Education Program to become a Judge Advocate General. She deployed in support of Operations Allied Force, Joint Forge/Joint Guardian, and Enduring Freedom. Ms. Maceda's Air Force legal practice included criminal law, operational law, and aviation litigation. Her final active duty assignment was with the DoD OIG so her return to the DoD OIG was a natural fit.

Continued

Ms. Maceda received a Bachelor of Science in History from the United States Air Force Academy, a Master's Degree in Strategic Intelligence from the National Intelligence University, and her Juris Doctor from the William and Mary School of Law. She is licensed to practice law in Virginia.
